theria in the village. Emmet tent, KOTM, elect officers

Saturday evening, Dec. 22nd. J. F. Buckley's children, all of whom have had diphtheria, are about com-pletely recovered, and no new cases are reported. Sparrow hunting as an employment has been taken up by a few young men who are more zealous than prudent in discharging their guns about the village.

I. Groshaw's chimney burned out during the high wind Sunday, threat-ening to give the fire company a chance to try our new apparatus in a genuine conflagration.

Mrs. Cary discovered that some one had attempted to enter a safe which stood in her building on Main street, breaking the tee and a hinge off the door and injuring the lock. Suspicion rests on some of her tenants who have left the town.

the ground for a large house in the east part of the village.

A barber has rented the second floor of the brick and now all can get a clean shave for only a dime.

Thomas Rochester has his new black-smith shop completed and has started at work. He is a first-class workman in wood or iron and we predict for him a large trade.

Avoca is getting to the front. The citizens raised enough money to build 500 feet of nice sidewalk along Main street and from the station across the street. It adds much to our little town.

The Suuday school of the M. P. church is preparing a fine program for the Christmas tree to be held in the church Christmas night. The older scholars have a play entitled "Borrowing trouble". The younger ones have a Christmas Cantata called "Crowning Christmas." Santa Claus assists in this play.

Roseburg Letter.

Mrs. T. H. Moore visited friends in Marlette one day this week.

Lyman Bradshaw and wife, of Cash yisited friends here this week.

The quarterly conference of the M. E. church was held here last Tuesday. Roseburg Tent, KOTM, nominated their officers last Wednesday evening. James Wilson, of Pinconning, spent couple of days here this week with his family.

Maggie Bradshaw began teaching in the Willey school district in Greenwood last Monday.

A number of the members of Fre mont Grange are in Lansing this week, furnishing yocal music for the State Grange, in session there.

Jep Bradshaw drove to Lamotte last Saturday. He was accompanied home on Sunday by his sister Maggie who had been visiting there for some time.

Elder Springer preached a most impressive and beautiful sermon here last Tuesday evening. It is to be regretted that there were not more out to receive the benefit of so fine an address. The church shed is completed. It was erected with most commendable haste and energy by those engaged on it and will doubtless add greatly to the comfort of both man and beast during
